announces their partnership with Amica Credit Mills thanks to Region of Peel's first ever Black-led, Black-focused and Black-serving Fund

For Immediate Release (May 11, 2025): Ubuntu Legacy Community Care (ULCC), a non-profit dedicated to enriching Black seniors' lives, is thrilled to announce that they were a recipient of Peel Region's new Black-led, Black-focused, and Black-serving (B3) fund. The Community Investment Program through its fiscal sponsor Federation of Black Canadians have allocated $10,000 in B3 funds to ULCC. This has paved the way for ULCC to work with Amica Credit Mills in a new partnership.

Since its founding, ULCC has prioritized accessible opportunities for seniors. Partnering with Amica Credit Mills strengthens this commitment, blending ULCC's grassroots community approach with Amica's expertise in senior care. The expanded program lineup includes: Wellness & Mobility Activities, Educational Seminars, Social & Recreational Events and Community Outreach Initiatives.

"Our partnership with Amica Credit Mills marks a transformative step in addressing the holistic needs of seniors," said Nicholas Knight, ULCC Director. "Together, we're ensuring more seniors in Mississauga and beyond have access to programs that promote independence, joy and lifelong learning."

"Amica is thrilled to support Ubuntu Legacy's vision," said Amica Credit Mills spokespersons, Ann Marie Faria and Cheryl Stefanovic. "This partnership aligns with our commitment to empowering seniors through wellness and meaningful connections."

ULCC's Seniors Programs remain accessible at $35 per year, providing unlimited access to all activities, exclusive event invitations, and priority workshop registrations. In its first year, ULCC engaged over thirty seniors aged 55+ through local partnerships and volunteers. With Amica Credit Mills onboard, the organization aims to double its reach in 2025, targeting underserved neighbourhoods and introducing multilingual programming to serve Mississauga's diverse population.
